Choir Boys to Sing Strauss Musical Play

A feature of the concert which the Vienna Mozart Boys' Choir will give at Junior High East tomorrow evening for the benefit of High School Girls' Glee Club, will be the musical play, "Tales from the Vienna Woods" by Johann Strauss. The familiar waltz songs will be doubly appealing because the play is to be sung in costume.

Interest in the concert is increased by the fact that the soloist of the present choir was engaged by the renowned conductor, Arturo Toscanini, to present works by Mozart at the 1937 Salzburg Festival under his baton. Toscanini declares this choir to be "the best of the Viennese Boys' Choirs within living memory."

The rest of the program is as follows: Twenty-Third Psalm, F. Schubert; The Nightingale, F. Schubert; Lullaby, J. Brahms; Le chant du Berceau (solo), W. A. Mozart; Noel (Christmas), French; Secret Love, German; Across the Niemen, Polish; Suite of Folk Songs, "From Austria's Mountains," by Frank Burkhardt.

CURRY DANCE PUPILS ENJOY HOLIDAY PARTIES

Four delightful parties were held December 31st and New Year's Day by the Curry School of Dancing, some three hundred young people sharing in the joy of the occasions. Odd Fellows Hall was transformed with the many wreaths, Christmas trees and laurel and was a lovely background for the colorful party frocks worn by the young ladies.

The beginners' Junior High group were dainty indeed, handling their first long dresses with quite an air. They were received by Mrs. Roy Connor, Mrs. Robert Cook and Mrs. W. F. DeMaris in dressy afternoon gowns. The ushers were Masters Hugh Clokke, Robert Cook, Sherman Hall, Arthur Hill, Ray-who witnessed an accident, and assisted the injured man, at the Arlington Car Yard or Terminal of the Boston Elevated Railway, on Saturday afternoon, March 23, 1935, between 3:45 and 4:30. Communicate with James F. Meagher, attorney for the injured man, Room 712, Barristers Hall, 11 Pemberton Square, Boston. Capital 9040.

Arlington was cleaned up quickly and efficiently after the storm that ushered in the new year. Edward J. O'Brien, superintendent of Public Works, had snow plows out before five o'clock New Year's morning. When the snow had been scraped to one side, the loaders and the men with shovels were sent out. This was at noon on New Year's day. By noon Sunday, the Center was cleaned back to the curb and almost down to the pavement, and the snow all carted away.

From there, the machines were sent to the business sections at the Heights and in East Arlington, and after that the rest of the avenue and the side streets were cleared.

All of this cost money. According to S. Alfred Benson, clerk of the Board of Public Works, the storm will set the town treasury back about $8,000.

Men Paid Double Time
It was not so much that it was a bad storm, says Mr. Benson, though it is the worst he has had

TOWN OFFICIALS APPLAUDED AS THEY DESCRIBE DUTIES

Report on Work of Past Year for Chamber of Commerce and Guests.

Town officials received hearty applause Tuesday night in Robbins Memorial Town Hall when they described the duties of their various departments to the members of the Chamber of Commerce and the few citizens of the town who took advantage of the invitation to attend the meeting. Some of the officials did more than describe their duties—they told what they had accomplished during the year, and foreshadowed the requests they would make at Town Meeting.

It was ladies' night as well as Town Affairs night for the Chamber. Dinner was served to the members and their guests by Roy Hamilton. The fifteenth anniversary of the Friends of the Drama, whose date is January 13th, will be celebrated by a program of unusual events that have occurred during these fifteen years. Mrs. George N. Many of the women who responded to the invitation of Mrs. Dallin later signed the constitution and so became the charter members. Some of these will re-enact the doings of that first meeting.

Former Librarian Dies Following Long Illness

Miss Edith A. Whittemore Leaves Host of Friends.

At the time of her birth it stood on Massachusetts avenue, but was afterwards moved back. She was a descendant of Samuel Whittemore, who, when he was eighty years old, on April 19th, 1775, killed three British soldiers, and of Amos Whittemore, the inventor of the machine for making cotton and wool cards. COMMUNITY CHEST HEADQUARTERS OPENED MONDAY

Activity prefacing the Community Chest Appeal, which actually opens in little more than a week (January 17 to 26) has been apparent for some time. Most Arlington people have heard about it from the members of the speakers' bureau and read about it in the local papers. But now there are visible evidences of it right in the Center.

The Community Chest Headquarters, 468 Massachusetts avenue, on the south side of the avenue just below the railroad crossing, were formally opened Monday and have already been attractively decorated with displays contributed by the various organizations which are members of the chest. Instruction meetings for the workers in the various divisions of the town have already begun and will continue next week, there being a different meeting every night.

All Questions Answered
Anyone who still has a question about the Community Chest, about its purposes or about the organizations included in membership, will find answers at headquarters in the form of literature, as well as many willing informants.

The Welfare Council offers a free service to all organizations and groups in Arlington planning winter activities.

It is entitled:

"ACTIVITY DATE DUPLICATION AVOIDANCE"

This is the way it works: Merely call Arlington 6206. The Arlington Welfare Council office phone. State your organization, and your plans for an activity of sort such as a fair, guest night, play, social, dance, etc.; the day and date you hope to hold the affair, and ask if the Council has listed any other function for that particular date. If not, request that it be listed for that time. If some other major activity is scheduled for your date, and you think it might conflict with yours, thereby lessening the attendance, you can plan another evening or afternoon for your activity.

It works both ways. Should there be two plays, guest nights, or other functions at which the general public are expected to patronize, the attendance will be split, and neither affair will gate the attendance needed to make it a success.

Start the New Year right for your organization. Request your activities chairman to check their dates first with the Welfare Council by calling Arlington 6206.

THIS IS A FREE COMMUNITY SERVICE.

YEAR'S BUILDING PERMITS TOTAL $1,007,966.00

Slightly Higher Than Last Year. Not a Boom, Says Inspector Mossman.

Although 1937 could in no way be characterized as a "boom" year, according to Building Inspector Paul H. Mossman, the total value of the permits issued reached a total of $1,007,966, which is $132,890 more than the permits of 1936. There was building also on the former El lot on Massachusetts avenue and Tufts street, on the Schouler estate on Pleasant street, and in the Morningdale section.

Of the 401 permits, 142 were for single family dwellings whose total value is $832,400. One large apartment house—fifteen apartments—was built at a cost of $50,000. Included in the list is the Heights Branch library, $28,000, and fifty-nine garages, $19,950.

The rest of the building for the year is as follows: foundation for apartment house, 1, $2,000; complete one-family dwelling, 3, $16,800; alter stable into one-family

Horatio A. Phinney, for over fifty years a resident of Arlington and active in its affairs, passed away Tuesday at the Symmes Arlington Hospital, of whose board of trustees he was president. He had been ill since Christmas.

Mr. Phinney was born in Gorham, Maine, September 16, 1860, the son of John and Mathilda Corlies Phinney. He spent his boyhood on his father's farm. Later the family moved to Townshend, Vermont, and he accompanied them. When he was seventeen he came to Boston and secured work in a provision store. In 1880 he was employed by Henry H. Reed, a Boston leather merchant and worked there for seven years, learning the business. In 1887, he started in the leather business for himself. He was in this business until 1902 when he was made president and managing director of the Cross Paper Feeder Company, which position he held until his death.

In 1883, he married Georgianna W. Frost of Arlington, the daughter of Francis S. and Almira J. Teele Frost, who survives him.

It was in 1895 that he purchased land on Bartlett avenue and Gray street of George I. Doe. There he built the Dutch colonial house which, with its lovely gardens, has become one of the show places of the town. He was a member of the First Parish Church and had been on its standing committee for many years. He had also served as moderator since the passing of Judge Parmenter.

He was a Republican, and was at one time active on the Citizens Committee. He had served as Selectman for six years, being twice chairman of the board, and on many important town committees.

He played a large part in the development of the town, acting as a trustee of the Central Real Estate Trust, the Lockland Real Estate Trust, the Twenty-One Associates, and other important developments. He was president of the Arlington Cooperative Bank and largely responsible for its success.

He was a member of Hiram Lodge, A. F. & A. M., of Menotomy Royal Arch Chapter, the Middlesex Sportsman's Association, the Boston City Club, the Boston Historical Society, the Winchester Country Club, and the Appalachian Mountain Club.

SNOWY OWL VISITS HARLOW ST. HOUSE

A snowy owl perched on the ridgepole of the home of Alvin Klauer at 83 Harlow street on Sunday attracted a great deal of attention. Its wingspread was six feet and its feathers were white. It was probably on its way from the Arctic to some place as yet undiscovered by scientists. Two or three owls of this species are seen here each winter.

The Boston Herald reported that a photographer from its office reached the scene at half past one but before he could level his camera at the owl, it turned its head, saw small boys coming around the house with snowballs and flew away. The photographer declares that the bird winked at him.

Brussels Sprouts Au Gratin Are Delicious When Prepared By Miss Talbot's Recipe

DOES your family wear that "I have to eat this because it's healthful" look when you serve vegetables? Then give tonight's dinner menu a lift with this appetizing dish—Brussels Sprouts au Gratin. The tang of cheese gives the odd, delicate flavor of the sprouts a new taste twist.

Here's the recipe:
Brussels Sprouts au Gratin
1 quart Brussels sprouts
2 cups medium white sauce
1 cup buttered crumbs
2 tablespoons grated cheese

Clean sprouts. Soak in cold salted water for 30 minutes and drain. Cook in boiling salted water until tender, about 25 minutes. Drain and combine with sauce and then transfer to casserole. Cover with buttered crumbs blended with grated cheese and bake in moderate oven 375° F., about 20 minutes.

This dish makes as good an entrée for a light luncheon as it does a complement for roasts or fish at dinner. Best of all, you won't have to worry about kitchen odors invading the rest of the house while the sprouts are cooking. Simply get a can of that new odorless household deodorant I've mentioned before. Mix a little of the powder with water, and spray into the air while the sprouts are on the stove, or, if you prefer, just before you serve dinner. An alternate method is to simmer it on the stove before and during the cooking process. All unpleasant smells will evaporate like magic. Only a faint appetizing aroma will remain to tell your nose that dinner is ready. Wipe your sink and stove and wash in the solution, too. It's miraculous!

Putting The Car In Shape For Cold Weather Driving

By C. R. Strouse
Director, School of Automobiles, International Correspondence Schools

WINTER is the automobile's most formidable enemy, but provided the proper precautions are taken, it is an enemy that can be rendered powerless to inflict serious damage. It is essential, however, that these precautions be taken while there is still time. If trouble and expense are to be avoided when winter really gets into its stride.

Every motorist recognizes the necessity of adding anti-freeze solution to the cooling system, but do not forget to check the freezing point frequently to make sure that the solution is not being lost by leakage or evaporation. A cracked block or burst radiator may be the penalty of forgetfulness.

Play safe with your lubrication. Failure to change in time from summer to winter motor oils causes costly damage in the long run even when it does not lead to immediate trouble. It is good economy to drain the oil frequently, instead of trying to get everything you possibly can out of it. Dilution destroys the body of the oil, and the grit which gradually accumulates makes it abrasive.

Few motorists realize the importance of a clean, fully-charged battery. All batteries weaken with a fall in temperature. At zero degrees, Fahrenheit, a battery has only about half the strength it normally has during the summer.

As the thermometer goes toward zero, the oil in the crankcase and on the piston walls thickens, making it doubly difficult for the battery to turn over and start the engine. Also, in winter the car lights burn longer and the heater is switched on most of the time. The battery is further handicapped because much winter driving is on short trips which fail to bring the battery back to full charge.

When water is added to the battery in freezing weather, run the engine for at least half an hour to mix the electrolyte and avoid the possibility that the water may freeze. Freezing may crack the battery case. Even if it doesn't, it may cause serious injury to the plates.

Clean and check spark plugs at least twice during the winter. A hot spark is needed to fire the motor in cold weather. If a plug is weak, or not operating, the result may be that as much as one gallon in ten of the gasoline is being wasted. Since this goes to dilute the oil in the crankcase, the motorist suffers a double loss.

Marriage

TILTON — DUNN

A particularly pretty wedding was that of Miss Ruth A. Dunn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dunn of 9 Daniels street, and Charles A. Tilton, of Gould street, Stoneham, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tilton of Stoneham and New York, which took place New Year's Eve in the Park Avenue Congregational Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Clifford O. Simpson. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The church was prettily decorated with laurel tied with white ribbon. The organist, Mrs. Smith, played the wedding marches. Mrs. Paul Jennings sang "At Dawning" and "O Promise Me" before the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Arthur W. Cory of Falmouth, as matron of honor. Mr. Cory acted as best man. The ushers were Frank J. Butler of Dorchester and John F. Gibson of Melrose.

The bride's gown was a tulle redingote appliqued with satin flowers and worn over white satin. Her long tulle veil was draped from a Juliet cap. She carried Easter lilies. The matron of honor was in hyacinth motif banded at the hem with velvet. With this she wore a velvet jacket and hat and carried heather dawn carnations and stock tied with pink.

About two hundred guests attended the reception in the Parish House which followed the ceremony. The bride's mother, who assisted in receiving, wore burgundy lace with a velvet hat and a corsage of sweetbriar roses, while the groom's mother was in black velvet with a veiled hat and a corsage of red roses. Among the guests were the groom's father and his step-sister, Miss Joanna Alsta of New York. Music during the reception was played by an ensemble—Alice Thoren, piano; Virginia Brooks, cello, and Bernadine Brooks, violin.

The bride is a graduate of Arlington High School and the groom of Stoneham High School. They have gone to New York on their wedding trip and on their return will live at 9 Daniels street.

How Can You Tell They Fit?

Children's Shoes Receive Attention of Medical Men

FROM infancy children's shoes have been found to be a future health menace if they are not fitted correctly and made of suitable, pliable leathers. This was brought out recently in discussion among child health authorities concerning the part played by shoes worn in the formative stages of childhood upon the general welfare of the school generation.

Dr. Joseph Lelyveld, head of the National Foot Health Council and specialist in the care of children's feet, remarking in Parents' Magazine upon the results of a survey of high school children says it "discloses 65 percent of the boys and 80 percent of the girls victims of foot ailments. It has been proven that the foot ills of adults are the result of neglect of their feet during their childhood." Further statistics show that out of 1900 high school girls examined only 52 percent walked correctly and as many as 72 percent were wearing improperly fitted shoes. The high school boys in the same survey had a better average as only 29 percent walked incorrectly and 57 percent wore ill-fitting shoes.

These youngsters have gotten a start toward adult foot ailments that have their origin in negligent shoe-fitting and lack of foot care during the ages of two to twelve, during the first stages of development and growth. Corns, callusities, weak arches, bunion formations and poor posture are the visible gauges of badly fitting shoes. "In most instances," says Dr. Lelyveld, "foot defects in childhood can be remedied by wearing correct shoes; that means, shoes that give the foot ample space to grow, and that are made with flexible soles that bend freely at the ball of the foot where the foot bends."

It is a mistake to let children, especially boys who romp actively from the time they take their first step, wear shoes made of the kind of tough, thick shoe leather that goes into men's shoes to give durability. This type of leather has not the necessary elasticity to permit of a correct tread, to allow the foot to develop its muscles properly, and the bones to grow straight. Because of its iron-like strength, it may cramp the constantly growing foot of the child so that the toes become curved and the arches weakened.

At certain ages, some children's feet will outgrow shoes in from four to eight weeks and for this reason alone, parents must be constantly on the watch for the visible signs of shoe trouble. Shoes must be replaced as soon as they are outgrown. The normal age cycle of a good shoe allows for foot expansion of five-eighths of an inch during the lifetime of the shoe and more cannot be expected.

SACHEM COUNCIL TO CELEBRATE BOY SCOUT WEEK

Boy Scouts of the Sachem Council will join with a million Scouts and Scout leaders throughout the nation in celebrating Boy Scout Week February 6 to 12, dates of which were announced today by Stanley Merrill, Scout Executive.

Boy Scout Week will commemorate the twenty-eighth anniversary of the founding of the Scouting Movement in America, during which time more than 7,500,000 boys and men have engaged in Scouting's character influencing, citizenship training program of camping, service and organized activity. Mr. Merrill declared.

Three high points will mark the week's activities by Arlington Scouts who will begin the celebration with the observance of Scout Sunday, February 6, in accordance with the 12th point of their Law. "A Scout is Reverent," by attending in Scout Uniform, the various churches of their respective faiths.

As is traditional in Scouting on February 8, every Boy Scout and leader in America will re-dedicate himself to Scouting ideals by renewing his Scout Oath in a ceremony which will occur on a nationwide basis at 8:00 p. m.

Troop anniversary meetings, reunions, court of honors and ceremonies at schools churches and civic group meetings will fill the week which will climax in a country-wide "Living Expo" through which Scouts plan to demonstrate methods of accident prevention recommended procedure for both motorists and pedestrians as well as safety precautions for the home. They will also give living exhibits of Scoutcrafts allied to safety training which they receive as a part of their year-round Scout work, all of which may assist in reducing the accident death toll.

CORBETT STARS AS HIGH
QUINTET BEATS MELROSE

Score 32 to 15 at Melrose. Forward Gets Fine Support from Team.

Paced by their brilliant right forward, Captain "Mush" Corbett, the Arlington quintet rolled through Melrose at the Ell Ponders' gym last Tuesday afternoon, by a score of 32 to 15. Corbett accounted for 22 of Arlington's points, exactly two-thirds of the total. All through the game Corbett roamed the floor and no matter how tight the Melrose defense seemed to get, he always punctured it. Mike Burke and Ralph Thomas also looked very impressive. They set up Corbett to many a basket and were of a sterling quality on defense.

The game opened slow with both teams very cautious about making the first break. Slowly but surely, the points began to mount and at the end of the first period Arlington led, 7 to 3.

Melrose was held to 2 points in the second period, as Arlington went ahead to increase their lead by a 16 to 5 margin. Corbett gave the crowd an exhibition of fancy shooting from all angles and distances, and classy offensive pass manoeuvres, and amazed them with his everlasting energy and speed.

Coach Lowder let the boys loose with everything they had in the second half, and Melrose was in distress. The fast cutting, speedy basketball of the first half was shown in this half, with more flashiness. The usual last hope subs were sent in from the Melrose bench, but Lowder met them with fresh substitutes also, and Melrose could do nothing.

Weekly Boost: To the Arlington High School hockey team for letting Belmont win its first game in about three years. It was nice of the boys!

Lindy Blanchard was lucky enough to be sick in bed and miss the Belmont game, thereby saving his face at least, from disgrace.

To complete a very disastrous afternoon, one of the Arlington players took a couple of flip-flaps to the ice to show his attitude towards Belmont scoring that final goal. This certainly does not add to the school's name.

Several of our local boys are going in for amateur hockey in a big way. At present the University Club of Cambridge has on its roster one Jobie Lax. It need not be mentioned that he is the brother of John, because he can stand on his own feet. He went up to Lewiston, Maine last Sunday and tallied the Cantabs' only score.

Jobie Lax has a record that is unequaled anywhere in the country. In the seven years that he has been playing hockey, both scholastic and amateur, he has yet to spend so much as a minute in the penalty coop.

Rumor has it that Arlington may resume football connections with Medford again. It this does happen the first game won't come until the Fall of '39.

What happened to the W.P.A. basketball league? It was going strong up until this year. Maybe they're waiting for some kind soul to donate a loving cup for a prize.

Walter Donovan, Arlington's lip-reading quarterback, is quite a sprinter. He put the spikes on Tuesday and beat all of "Doc" McCarthy's dash men and hurdlers, hands down.

High Pucksters Miss Easy
Chances Against Belmont

By J. Leo Donohue
Arlington fell victim to Belmont last Saturday afternoon at the Garden, when the friendly sports rivalry exploded in the local lads' faces with a score of 3 to 1. This was the first hockey game that Belmont has won in, roughly speaking, 20 games. Not since George Ford, of Harvard fame, graduated from Belmont had they been able to beat Arlington, or any one else.

Belmont caught Arlington napping in the very first period. Belmont gained the puck on the face-off and raced to the Arlington cage. A scrimmage followed and suddenly, from out of a mass of legs and arms came a hockey stick with the disc on one end and Joe Rizzo on the other. He caged it very easily in the mad scramble that followed, in 25 seconds flat. Things had come to a head on the Belmont campus and they were out to make things hot and heavy. Shortly after this first goal Belmont stormed the home guard again and Bill Talbot sent a solid shot straight at Carney. It rebounded perfectly and Joe Rizzo was on the job to plunk it home. Arlington by now was very desperate and they cut loose with the whole offensive works. Twenty seconds before the closing whistle, Babine cut loose with an angle-high shot just inside the Belmont blue line. Sharkey, the Belmont goalie, spread to cover the shot but he was too late, and the puck dropped into the stringed pocket.

Belmont came back strong in the second period and Joe Murphy of the opposition beat Carney in the first half minute. There was no more scoring done and for the rest of the period and the whole of the third Arlington strove to tie the score but they had shot their bolt and were all done. Many easy scoring chances were muffed by Arlington all through the game. The summary:

ARLINGTON—Murphy, Henry, rw; Rizzo, Westland, c; Talbot, Dona-phue, rw; Roy, Sullivan, ld; Foley, rd; Sharkey, g.

ARLINGTON — Meaney, Lyons, rw; Duffey, Babine, c; Hickey, Benshimol, rw; Barnstead, rd; Battiss, ld; Carney, g.

A SCOUT'S BEST FRIEND.

That's what these young men say of their veteran Studebaker which they have driven 125,000 miles. Recently they drove to South Bend on their return from the Boy Scout Jamboree in Washington, D. C. At the Studebaker factory, Paul G. Hoffman, president of the corporation, presented them with the 100,000-mile Veteran Owner's emblem.

Preston Foster, Verree Teasdale,

Anita Louise, Victor Jory, Walter

It preaches nothing more serious than the gospel of good humor.

On Wednesday, Review Day, the program includes "A Tale of Two

Walter Kelly in "The Virginia

Judge."

All the resources of the United States Navy were loaned, it is said, for the production of a thrilling melodrama called "Submarine D-1," which opens Thursday and is announced as the most stirring and authentic film ever made with a "tin fish"—as the gobs irreverently term an undersea boat—as its subject. The movie folk journeyed to Newport, R. I., to make part of it, down to Cocos Coco in the Panama

Canal Zone for another, and then to San Diego for a lot more. One of the most modern of submarines, the real D-1 (also known as the Dolphin), was used for the picture.

Battleships, cruisers, destroyers and the like, by the score, are to be seen in its action. Pat O'Brien and George Brent are co-starred, and in one of the leading supporting roles is the sensational young newcomer,

Wayne "Kid Galahad" Morris.

Other notables in the cast include

Doris Weston, Frank McHugh, Ronald Reagan, Henry O'Neill and Regis Toomey.

Matching wits on a transatlantic ship for a world-famous diamond, a beautiful young girl, fond of gems, and a gaily romantic adventurer, fond of danger, keep just one step ahead of the law but find they can't escape from their hearts in "Dangerously Yours," the companion picture, featuring Caesar Romero and Phyllis Brooks.

AN ENDURING MONUMENT

Native ability, energy, and intelligence are valuable assets to any individual. When to these characteristics a man adds friendliness, kindness, and an interest in the well-being of others, he becomes a most valuable asset to the community in which he lives.

Such a man was Horatio Augustus Phinney, for whom the flags of the town are at half mast this week.

The story of Mr. Phinney's life reads like an old-fashioned Alger tale—from farm to the presidency of an important industrial concern. Until he was seventeen, he lived and worked on his father's farms, first in Maine, later in Vermont. His education was secured in the country schools; a distinction which he shared with many of the country's great, for the product of the "little red schoolhouse" has become famous.

He was twenty when he started in the leather business in Boston, learning it from the bottom up. Seven years later he was ready to go into business for himself. It was after he had proven his ability in this venture that he was made president of the Cross Paper Feeder Company, a position which he held at the time of his death.

Financially, he was a success. He had proven his business ability, his energy, his intelligence.

But to Arlington, his other characteristics were of greater importance. Mr. Phinney was a friendly man—the fact that he was "Gus", not Horatio, to so many people, proves this. He was friendly, kindly and more interested in others than in himself.

These qualities found practical expression in services of many kinds both to individuals and to the community in which he lived. Of the help that he gave to individuals, the public does not know, for Mr. Phinney was of those who did not let his right hand know what his left hand did. But it is safe to say that there are many who are grateful to him for personal help.

With the two Arlington institutions in which he was chiefly interested, every one is familiar. They are the Symmes Arlington Hospital and the Arlington Cooperative Bank.

Many people believe that had it not been for Mr. Phinney there would have been no hospital. Certain it is that had it not been for Mr. Phinney, the hospital would not have been so efficient an institution, a place where we can all feel sure of getting the best of care during illness.

He was the leader of the group whose efforts roused Arlington to support the hospital. He has been president of the board of trustees since their organization before the hospital was opened twenty-six years ago. Thirteen years ago when money was raised for the addition to the building, he was the active leader in the drive.

He has given money most generously. He has given as generously of his time and has taken a personal interest in the hospital. He has presided at the graduation exercises of the School of Nursing and has been a frequent visitor at the hospital. Indeed, it was while making a friendly call at the hospital that he was taken sick.

In the Cooperative Bank, he saw a way to help others to help themselves. He had been its president for twenty years. Except in the realization of a valuable work well done, it was not a profitable presidency. He made no money from it. He started early to his work in Boston so that he could go over bank affairs and give to its officials the benefit of his financial acumen. He stopped in on his way home. To these visits no one doubts the bank owes much of its success.

"Gus" Phinney will not be forgotten in Arlington. Through his constructive work he has built for himself an enduring monument—the more enduring because his thought was given not to building it but to helping others.

THE UNKNOWN DEAD

The Massachusetts Safety Council has sent out a New Year's message to motorists and pedestrians, addressed to "The Unknown Dead." It was as follows:

"Before you step into the path of moving traffic, or start the motor of your car, pause for a moment and consider why so many have died, needlessly, on the highways of our state in the past ten days. Pedestrians who might have lived were run down by speeding motorists, because they failed to wait until traffic had passed. Drivers killed themselves and others, because they gave no heed to the warning that 40 miles an hour at night, in winter weather, was the limit of safe speed, and preferred to operate at a mile a minute until the crash occurred. In Boston alone, between the hours of midnight and daylight following Christmas eve, 14 persons were injured, a tragic tribute paid to speed and liquor.

"You who are the unknown dead today will identify yourselves to us in the columns of the newspapers within the next few days; unless this warning, and your desire to accept personal responsibility in the Governor's Highway Safety Campaign, may erase your name from the list of those 'about to die'."

China's property loss in the six months undeclared war is estimated to be $750,000,000. Japanese property destroyed in China, $100,000,000. Add to this personal losses, foreign losses, unemployment, starvation and you have utter waste.

King George VI of England makes the great automobile manufacturer, Baron Nuffield, a Viscount in return for gifts amounting to $60,000,000. In England Big Business is honored.

Colon merchants wish to boycott Japanese goods. They cancel orders and order replacements from the United States. Goods arrive labelled "Made in Japan" (Copyright 1938—Boston Herald—Cable).

The great Woolworth Company boycotts all Japanese goods.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes borrows his phrase "America's 60 Families" from financial writer Lindbergh's recent book. Lamont du Pont accepts the invitation of the Special Senate Unemployment Committee to testify soon. He may also "tell 'em."

Congress reassembles. President Roosevelt urges the passing of a wages and hours bill, farm crop control, unemployment relief. Promises no lower taxes and no balanced budget. He would have new legislation to curb monopolies and other business "abuses."

Lewis W. Douglas, new principal of McGill University, Montreal, and director of the budget during the first Roosevelt administration, says, "I do not now understand why a high official discourages monopoly in one field, while it encourages it in other fields. The government is encouraging and fostering monopoly in the field of agriculture, money and labor."

Robert H. Jackson blasts against price-fixing. A presidential proclamation now fixes the price of silver; 64.64 cents an ounce. The free market price is around 45 cents. Miners receive a bounty of 20 cents per ounce produced. The government buys.

The great census of the unemployed shows that 7,822,912 registered. A test house-to-house follow-up discloses about 28 per cent too modest to register which equals 11,000,000. What have we learned, if anything?

Says Henry Ford, (one of the 60 families) "One thing we must learn is that we were on the right track a few years ago, and left it. When we made plenty of things that people used to live, we were able to make them at low prices, and people were able to buy them, and this made work for more men. There is no way of changing that cycle, and no way of improving upon it."

The second member of the Roosevelt circle enters the employ of Hearst. He is general manager Elliott Roosevelt, of the Hearst Radio, Inc. John Boettiger is publisher of Hearst's Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt publishes a new book, "This Troubled World." This is the fourth volume she has published since becoming First Lady.

The 75th anniversary of Lincoln's Emancipating the slaves is celebrated in New York. Two thousand Negro men and women gather and listen as Hubert T. Delany declares: "We in this country who are poor and at the bottom of the economic ladder—whether we be black or white—are still in slavery and we will continue in bondage as long as we are subject to economic insecurity." He pleads for "education and intelligent use of the ballot."

Maurice J. Tobin becomes the 41st Mayor of Boston.

More naval expansion about due.

IN 1913

Twenty-Five Years Ago This Week

Joseph J. Duffy, Past Grand Knight of Arlington Council, Knights of Columbus, has been presented a fourth degree charm by the members in appreciation of his work during his term of office.

On Christmas day Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Fessenden entertained guests at the Fessenden homestead on Water street, to the number of over thirty.

A surprise party, which proved in every way to be a real surprise, was given Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Morse, of Brantwood road, Saturday evening by their Kensington Park neighbors, in honor of the 25th anniversary of their marriage.

Miss Anne Louise Johnson, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Henry Johnson, of Brunswick, Maine, and Warren Eastman Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Robinson of Arlington, were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents, on the afternoon of December 26th.

This afternoon, Mrs. W. O. Partidge entertained the Sunshine Club at a delightful New Year party at her home at 9 Claremont avenue.

A hearing was given on petition of Jacob Bitzer and others, to lay out Schouler court as a public way, at the meeting of the town joint Board on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Hendrick had a gratifying family reunion at their pleasant home at 99 Medford street on Christmas day. The party included their daughter and the three sons—Philip A., John R., and Arthur J. Hendrick and their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Devereaux of Wellington street, gave a dance at the Belmont Country Club on Wednesday evening.

The Vernon A. C. hockey team last Saturday afternoon on Spy Pond defeated the Tremont A. C. of Lexington, 5 to 0. Lowe, Percy and Bowser were the stars.

ARLINGTON GETS EFFICIENT CLEAN-UP AFTER STORM

for some time, but that it came at a bad time. Most of the work had to be done on a holiday and on Sunday. On Sunday, the men were paid double. They had already been paid for the holiday and were paid again for the time they worked. That meant double time for Saturday, too.

On Saturday, one hundred and sixty-five men worked and on Sunday between two hundred and twenty and two hundred and thirty. Most of these men were taken from the regular civil service roster. Besides this, about fourteen additional trucks were hired.

Sanding Expensive

The expense was further increased by the necessity of sanding. On the hills and at intersections this was a necessity and the sand, says Mr. Benson, wouldn't stay on. The roads got smooth and slippery and sand was spread on them. Then there was a thaw, the sand sank down in the slush. That froze and the sanding had all to be done over again.

Because of all this expense, it will be necessary to ask for a further appropriation for snow removal. The last special Town Meeting appropriated $12,000 for this purpose. The December storms used up practically all of this, so more money will be needed if there is snow in January and February; that is, before the March Town Meeting.

There is a state law that one twelfth of the snow removal expenditures of the preceding twelve months can be used for snow removal. As last year there was no expenditure for that purpose, there was no money except that especially appropriated. Next year the Public Works Department expects to be able to get along without asking for a special appropriation.

mond Merrill, Donald Perry, Richard Stevenson and Littleton Strong. The hostesses assisted Mrs. Curry in dispensing many favors, the noise-makers proving most popular, although when a large colored bag suspended from the ceiling dropped snow balls on the dancers there was more "informality."

The Junior High evening party was held New Year's Eve from eight to ten-thirty and was, if possible, an even lovelier gathering. Richard Benshimol, Edson Chick, Robert Gleason, Ralph Neas, Paul Power, Terry Shuman, Allen Strong and Walter Wilcox introduced the young people to the matrons, Mrs. T. W. Scott, Mrs. Walter Sargent and Mrs. Frank Mahoney. This group of pupils are naturally more proficient dancers and executed the many steps taught in a very able manner. Perhaps the "shag" proved most fun and certainly made the floor sway.

New Year's Day at three-thirty the smaller children were received by Mrs. Peter J. Robinson and Mrs. Jere H. Sullivan. Little Crawford Coombes, Peter Robinson and William Marshall made the proper introductions with a grown-up air. Each favor was an added joy. Russell Curry's tap classes joined them when the ice-cream and cake were served.

That evening, in spite of the storm, a large gathering of the High School class was on hand, to be received by Mrs. Chester T. Cook and Mrs. Cedric Lewis in evening gowns. Mrs. Curry was assisted in her duties by Messrs. Robert Buxton, John Bresnahan, Robert Cave, Robert Cook, Arthur Russell, Charles Poole, Gardner Sloan and Robert Stevens.

Elimination dances were held in all classes and eight couples received prizes. Mrs. H. H. Stinson and Mrs. Louise Bacon Wood played ably for all the parties. The pupils are all looking forward to their next lessons on the 14th and 15th, regretting that they are not held every week.

EDWIN G. BLOIS, Mgr. and Treas.

IF your heart is generous and your budget slim, why don't you remember your friends with a Christmas gift from your own kitchen?

A loaf of Holiday Cake will make a very welcome present and at the same time solve one of your gift problems.

Holiday Cake

(8 egg whites)
1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour; 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1/4 cup butter or other shortening; 1/4 cup sugar; 5 egg whites, unbeaten; 1/4 cup finely cut candied cherries; 1/4 cup finely cut citron; 1/4 cup seedless raisins; 1/4 cup blanched chopped almonds; 1/4 cup shredded coconut; 1/4 teaspoon almond extract; 1/4 teaspoon vanilla.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg whites, one at a time, beating very thoroughly after each. Add fruit, nuts, coconut, and flavoring, and mix well. Add flour, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Turn into loaf pan, 8x2 1/2 inches, which has been greased, lined with heavy paper and again greased. Bake in slow oven (300°F.) 1 hour and 15 minutes, or until done.

IF you've rashly promised the young ones a holiday supper party for their little friends, the menu must be festive, but not too much so, in the interest of juvenile digestion.

Of course you wouldn't dare offer them a simple dessert of baked apples! So here's a de luxe version, full of party atmosphere but eminently wholesome, too.

Coconut Apples

1/2 cup sugar; 1/4 cup hot water; 3 tablespoons raisins, chopped; 3 tablespoons dates, chopped; 3 tablespoons nut meats, broken; 4 apples, pared and cored; 1/2 cup shredded coconut.

Combine sugar and water in casserole and heat in hot oven (450°F.) until sugar is dissolved, stirring occasionally. Combine raisins, dates, nut meats, and fill apple centers with mixture. Brush apples with melted butter. Place in casserole, cover closely, and bake 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate (350°F.), uncover and bake 45 minutes longer, basting apples occasionally with syrup. Sprinkle tops of apples with coconut and continue baking until coconut browns. Serve hot with cream. Serves 4.

WHEN chill winds blow and the family are roaring hungry for their dinner, it's a thoroughly sound idea to build your dinner around a plate of good, substantial soup. One of the best soups for this purpose is bean soup, which is savory and has plenty of body.

A generous dish of cole slaw, some hot muffins and the family's favorite dessert—and there is your dinner. This bean soup is thickened to the king's taste with a small quantity of quick-cooking tapioca.

Delicious Bean Soup

2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca; 1 teaspoon salt; dash of cayenne; 1/4 small onion, sliced; bean pulp; 3/4 cups milk; 1 tablespoon butter; 2 strips broiled bacon, diced; bacon drippings; 1 tablespoon minced parsley.

Combine tapioca, salt, cayenne, onion, bean pulp, and milk in top of double boiler. Place over rapidly boiling water and heat until scalded (allow 5 to 7 minutes after water resumes boiling); then cook 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add butter, bacon, drippings, and parsley. Remove onion before serving. Serves 4 to 6.

Note: Bean pulp may be prepared from cooked fresh or dried beans or baked beans.

GREENWOOD HIT IN

"LEANING ON LETTY"

Charlotte Greenwood's engagement at the Wilbur Theatre in Boston which started off in a blaze of glory at the Christmas night opening of "Leaning on Letty" the thrill comedy in which she has been touring this season, has been extended according to announcement of Martin Brookes, producer of the play.

"Leaning on Letty" is a happy combination of drama and comedy contrived by Wilbur Daniel Steele and Norma Mitchell, one in which the guise of an acidulous spinster who operates a tourists' accommodated home on the Boston Post Road and has a little difficulty with her guests.

How Letty Madison re-arranges her house in a premature spring-cleaning is told with tumultuous excitement and hilarious gaiety. The role is tailor-made to the measurement of the lanky comedienne and she is supported by a superb cast of players including Russell Fillmore,

Isabel Withers, Romaine Callender,

Wendy Atkin, Boyd Irwin and others of stage and screen prominence.

At the conclusion of the play proper, Miss Greenwood who has been in London for the last five years starring at Drury Lane's

Theater Royal, does a musical postscript in which she introduces a budget of the songs and dances that won her fame here and abroad. The innovation is one of the bright spots in this year's theatrical season.

In Boston Miss Greenwood

planned to remain for two weeks but the enthusiasm of critics and public has forced her to continue for a limited period during which popular priced matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday, performances starting at 2:30. The evening performances start at 8:30 with the curtain down in time for patrons to catch 11 p. m. trains home.

Interests. Chief of these was the Arlington Historical Society, chairman of whose Relic Committee she was. She was an authority on local history and up to the time of her last illness had been busy writing papers on Arlington houses and people.

She was also active in the First Parish Church, of which she was a lifelong member. For eighteen years she was a teacher in its Sunday School. She was also head of the Post Office Mission of the Alliance and a worker in the Center group. She kept her enthusiastic interest to the last and it was this as well as her friendliness that gained her the love of so many.

She was also a member of the Arlington Woman's Club, the Friends of the Drama, the Woman's Republican Club, and the Library Association.

She leaves a sister, Mrs. Omar W. Whittemore, with whom she had lived most of her life; a niece, Mrs. Marjorie Allen of Acton; a grandniece, Miss Dorothy Allen of Acton; a grandnephew, Charles Allen of Concord, and a great grandnephew, both of Concord.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at half past two at the First Parish Church. Rev. John Nicol Mark, minister of the church, will conduct the service. The ushers, representatives of the Arlington Historical Society, the Library and the First Parish, will be Charles A. Hardy, Ralph Stevens, Arthur J. Wellington, and Philip Eberhardt.

the Branch when it was located in the Locke School, will be in charge. The colonial building of red water-struck brick and limestone trimmings is by this time familiar to everyone who passes along Park avenue and Paul Revere road, at which corner it is located. The main entrance on Park avenue has a recessed doorway and ornamental iron railings at the sides with fluted pilasters and pedestals.

Pleasant Interior

The interior carries out the pleasant promise of the exterior. The main room on the first floor is designed in early American style. The bookcases on the sides are of maple, as are also the wide tables, on which will be many magazines, the chairs, and the exhibition cases.

The window hangings are tan edged with braid in which there is a touch of red.

In the rear wing are the working quarters for the staff. These are separated from the main room by a glass partition and include an office and workroom.

In the basement is a hall, ten feet high, with a recessed platform. This will serve civic organizations at the Heights just as the hall in the Robbins Library has served the town's civic organizations since it was built. The basement also contains a storeroom and a staff room as well as the oil heating unit and toilets.

The Efficient New Way

Mrs. Wood described the Chest as the efficient new way of avoiding duplication of effort in raising money for charity. She welcomed the new organizations to the Chest—the St. Vincent de Paul Society and the St. James' Guild, and spoke of the good they had done in town.

The Boys' Club, she said, she could not talk too much about. A large number of boys had been taken up by the police during the year. They were not bad boys; they did not know what to do with their leisure time. This, the Boys' Club would teach them. Arlington, she said, had a marvelous police chief who knew boys from feet to head, and he was the president of the Boys Club, Incorporated.

President A. William Platin stressed the good fortune of living in a democratic country and in a town where the government was the most democratic in the world. He then turned the meeting over to Roger W. Homer, the program chairman.

The Chamber of Commerce, said Mr. Homer, was endeavoring to make itself a more potent influence in Arlington, to sponsor more things of value to the citizens. He explained that there would be no time for the speakers to answer questions but that the Chamber would be glad to answer any sent to them.

One Hundred Years Ago

The Town Clerk, Earl A. Ryder, who was the first official introduced by Mr. Homer, quoted from the records of a hundred years ago to show the changes that had taken place in Arlington. Then, the population was 1300, the valuation, $3,000,000, and the cash balance, $673.54; the teachers were paid from five to six hundred dollars a year as it was believed that "nothing was lost by giving them a liberal remuneration."

He went on to explain the work of his office—chiefly recording—vital statistics, births, marriages, deaths—and the issuing of licenses of all kinds.

Playground Sites Purchased

Speaking for the Park Commission, Nils Anderson told how the $31,000 appropriated at the last annual Town Meeting had been used in the purchase of four plots of land for playground purposes—Thorndike street extension, Teale street, the Purcell land off North Union street and a plot on Florence avenue. The Dixon property adjoining the Pheasant avenue school site was not bought because it could not be had at a reasonable price.

The Commission had a five-year program for the purchase of equipment and fencing that would involve an expenditure of from $3,000 to $3,500 a year. The Thorndike street playground would be developed at once and be available for baseball this spring. Several tennis courts were to be built.

Bathing facilities, he said, were still a problem. Hoodlums at the Heights Reservoir beach tore down the shelters that were built and smashed the drinking fountains.

Boys' Club Would Solve Problem

That problem, Mrs. Wood volunteered, would be solved by the Boys' Club.

Mrs. Lucinda Spofford, opened her talk by expressing her sympathy with the Boys' Club, saying that no one could appreciate better than a public librarian how much a Boys' Club was needed.

She then described the work of the library during the past year in distributing over 20,000 books to school classrooms and over 13,000 to branches, borrowing from the State House books in eight different languages and registering 1,795 new people, nearly 1,000 of them adults. The library now, she said, is used by nearly 18,000 people.

Should Finish Auditorium

In the unavoidable absence of Superintendent Joseph Keating, Chairman Clement J. Beaudet spoke for the School Committee. He told of the efficiency of the new superintendent, explained the economies that had been practised and urged that the High School auditorium be finished so that it could be used for assemblies.

A volunteer speaker was Seroph Basmajian, who spoke for the Planning Board in the absence of the chairman, Harold Knight. He told how the members of the board attended meetings and heard speakers in the effort to get ideas for the improvement of the town.

Frederick Lowe told of the Board of Appeals to which are referred the complaints of those who have been refused permits by the building inspector.

As the Board of Health chairman, Alfred W. Lombard, was out of town, Dr. Charles F. Atwood told how diphtheria had been practically wiped out by the clinics at which the preventive serum was administered, and how clinics for dogs, at which anti-rabies serum is injected, had been started. He stated that Arlington is now the healthiest it has ever been, with but one case of scarlet fever and no other contagious diseases.

Dumps Used Up

Though Loren Marsh of the Board of Public Works told of the efforts of that body to keep the streets cleared, his main concern was with the lack of dumping places for waste. There is but one thousand square feet left, he said, that can be used for dumping, and that is at the Lexington line, and the Lexington officials already are asking when Arlington is going to stop dumping there.

The Board of Public Works, he concluded, had a solution. A report was being printed for the Town Meeting and he hoped to have a chance to explain the Board's plan to various organizations before the Town Meeting.

Hopeful and Humorous

The last speaker, Selectman Ernest W. Davis, was both hopeful and humorous. He was hopeful because he thought the town was on the way to better times and perhaps, even, to the reduction of the tax rate. In spite of expenses, the debt, he said, had been reduced—and during the depression years. Increased building would bring increased valuation and this would help in reducing the tax rate.

He expressed satisfaction with the way welfare relief had been administered and stated that he thought that the town had received full value for the $446,000 which it had put with the federal contribution of $1,767,000 for W. P. A. work.

The meeting closed when Mr. Platin had expressed gratitude to the speakers and stated that he was proud as well as thankful.

SPECIAL AGENT SPEAKS AT MEETING OF K. OF C.

Agent Dailey gave a very interesting talk on the work of the Order in general and stressed the Catholic Action Movement which has accomplished so much in its fight against Communism and all "isms."

Following the meeting the committee in charge of the Past Grand Knights' and "Old Timers" Night to be held on January 13, in Odd Fellows Hall met and completed their arrangements for the affair. The guest speaker will be Assistant United States District Attorney Henry M. Leen who has taken as his subject, "Gambling Rackets."

SAGAS OF THE SKIES

NOT all the drama of the skies is written by air mail pilots, thrill-seeking aerial adventurers or aerial explorers. True, modern transport flying has become relatively prosaic. The trim, speedy giants which glide swiftly over the nation's airways on regular schedules have become so safe, so reliable and so punctual that the possibility of a passenger or a pilot on these transport ships having an adventure has become remote indeed.

Now and then, however, a thrill does come the way of the transport pilot. Occasionally these expert aviators have an opportunity to demonstrate in some unusual and thrilling manner their skill. Such was the case recently at Newark, N. J. A glider, en route from Chicago, circled the field for one of the hundreds of conventional safe landings made monthly at this busy airport. The pilot glided in for a landing only to feel the left side of the landing gear give way beneath him. A warning light flashed in the control cabin while a siren further served to notify him that the wheels were not down all the way.

Byron C. Moore, the pilot, immediately "gunned" his motors and lifted his ship back into the air.

Then he and his copilot, Kenneth R. Case, tried in vain to get the undercarriage locked in the "down" position. On the ground, airline officials studied the landing gear with glasses and by radio ordered the pilot to land.

Carefully, gently, Moore brought his ship toward the ground. His landing gear was fully retracted. So delicately did this skilled pilot land the huge ship that his nine passengers felt only a slight jar as the ship skidded to a stop. The only damage to the ship was that its three-bladed propellers were slightly scored.

Glorifying The American Dairy Maid!

COUNT ALEXIS DE SAKNOFF-SKY, whose designing, genius has heretofore been directed toward glorifying the American automobile, business office, and industrial life in general, now turns his artist's hand to exalting the American dairy maid.

Under his skilled fingers, the design for a coronation Dairy Maid gown, symbolizing the dairy maid costume of all ages and people, has been created. Turning back to the historic and picturesque in dairy maid costumes for his inspiration, this modern industrial designer has achieved a creation fit for the Queen of Dairyland. And it's for Wisconsin's dairy queen, Alice Baker, who will don her dairy coronation gown to preside over festivities of National Cheese Week, November 7 to 14.

Instead of the homespun woolen, linen and velvet which make up the traditional dairy maid costume, the glorified dairy coronation gown will be fashioned of cheese-yellow tulle, embellished with sequins in the design of the American cartwheel cheese. A girdle of brightest gold sequins will replace the conventional velvet bodice. Gold slippers will take the place of wooden shoes. The glorified dairy maid crown will be a cap of tulle with a rolling brim encrusted with sequins.

What Do You Know About Health?

By FISHER BROWN and NAT FALK

Answers:

1. Chief medical officer of the Army during the Civil War. He organized an ambulance service to bring wounded soldiers promptly to hospitals. Due entirely to his efforts after the war, New York became the first city in the world to organize an ambulance service for its sick.

2. When you are thirsty. Sipping the water quenches thirst much more quickly than gulping it.

3. Cows. The Pilgrims had no cows when they landed at Plymouth in 1620, and their sufferings during the first year on the bleak New England shore were due in no small measure to nutritional troubles. The Pilgrim Fathers sent to Holland for 30 head of cattle which arrived at the end of their first year. There are now 26,000,000 cows in the U. S.
